

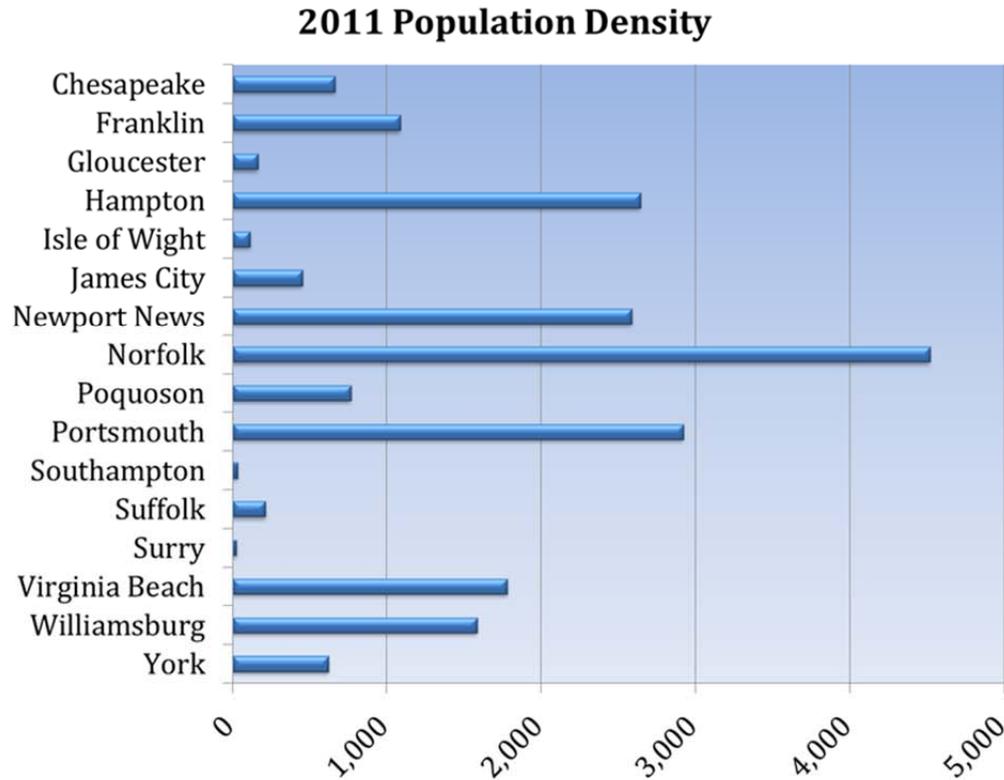

Figure 7.2 Population Density

Why is it important?

Population density indicates both the room for development within a locality, as well as giving a guide to the type of development that exists currently: urban, suburban, or rural.

Source: Weldon Cooper Center, HRPDC